Frederick's of Hollywood (www.fredericks.com) is a leading brand for lingerie and women's intimates.

Originally founded in 1947, Frederick's attracted the attention of brand ambassadors such as Marilyn Monroe and Madonna. The famed Frederick's retail line quickly became an international sensation supported by a large and loyal client base.

Today, Fredericks.com remains a global leader in the online lingerie and women's intimates marketplace.

“Customers were highlighting online issues that we couldn’t replicate.”

CHALLENGE

In 2020, Fredericks.com migrated to a new ecommerce platform, a process which resulted in several site performance challenges, a drop in conversion rates and impacted the online shopping experience of Frederick’s customers.

The number of Customer Support tickets grew sharply as shoppers complained of add to cart issues, various goal failures, payment errors and slow page load times.

Prioritizing issues as well as implementing an internal process to best tackle the problems became a true challenge.

“..our Google Core Web Vitals dropped post migration. The Webeyez Best Practice function allowed us to determine the elements contributing to the decline.”

SOLUTION

Blake approached Kaustubh Joshi (“KJ”), the Chief Data Officer for Overdose Digital for advice. KJ recommended Webeyez as an easily deployed SaaS solution to measure the impact that goal failures had on Frederick’s lost revenue, customer loyalty and the online shopping experience.

Webeyez deployed seamlessly into the site and instantly revealed details behind Frederick’s payment errors, login failures and additional factors that were decreasing their online conversions.

“Webeyez replicated actual user errors and revealed which site issues were directly connected to our lost online revenue.”
